9. Corroborating the content of the course with the expectations of the epistemic community, professional associations and representative employers within the field of the program

- The discipline content is consistent with what is being taught in other universities at home and abroad. In order to adapt it to the labour market requirements, there were held meetings with business representatives.

10. Evaluation

The evaluation method is maintained for the re-examination.

In order to calculate the final grade by summing up the points obtained during the semester, it is necessary to obtain at least 50% of the maximum score related to the written exam.

Type of activity	10.1 Evaluation criteria	10.2 Evaluation method	10.3 Share in final grade
10.4. Course	Knowledge of the presented theoretical concepts Correct application of theory to practice	Project*	60%

10.5. Seminar/lab activities	Interest in individual preparation, seriousness in addressing seminar work	Points for active participation in seminars	40%
	* The project will be done individually and will be defended. Group projects can be approved if the work is extensive and requires the collaboration between students. In this case, the tasks will be clearly assigned by the professor and agreed by students. The theme will correspond to the content of the discipline and it will be approved by the professor. The points for the “Assignments during the semester” and for the “Points for active participation in seminars” can be obtained only during the semester course/seminar hours and they will not change for re-examination. Participation in the exam is based on the appointment on a specific exam date. Participation must be communicated to the course and seminar professors in the form and by the deadline set by them. The evaluation method is the same for the re-examination. In order to calculate the final grade by summing up the points obtained during the semester, it is necessary to obtain at least 50% of the maximum score related to the written exam.
